Introduction

This hall is located next to a soy sauce factory, one of Shodoshima's famous products. The building is in the traditional Japanese 'gasshozukuri', and is registered as a national tangible cultural heritage.

Inside, there is explanation of the history of soy sauce and the traditional ways of producing it. There is a huge wooden barrel that was actually used in soy sauce production. Pass through the Okoga Tunnel (Big Barrel Tunnel), and you will find yourself in a room with a display of traditional tools used. This display will familiarize you with soy sauce, especially through the 'bojimeshiki-assakuki' (used for pressing the soy sauce) and the 'koji-muro' (yeast room).

In the shopping area inside the hall, you can try the locally famous Soy Sauce Soft-serve Icecream, which is an original product made from soy sauce meticulously extracted from the fermenting facility. The taste is slightly reminiscent of caramel!
