

Hotel Establishments Providing Temporary Refuge for Stranded Travelers

We are releasing a list of hotel establishments that, in accordance to the agreement with the Kagawa Hotel and Ryokan Association, will provide temporary refuge for travelers who are unable to return home due to disruptions in transportation resulting from a natural disaster.

Each establishment will offer, to the best of its ability, temporary refuge to stranded travelers in lobbies and other spaces. Food and drink may also be provided for a fee, depending on the establishment. For details regarding the services that each establishment will provide, please refer to the list of hotel establishments providing temporary refuge.

Before utilizing these establishments for temporary refuge, please read the following important points and contact the establishment you wish to use beforehand to confirm the degree to which assistance can be provided. (If you cannot reach an establishment by phone, or you do not have access to a phone, please visit the establishment in person to confirm.)

Important Points for the Use of Hotel Establishments Providing Temporary Refuge

- The agreement stipulates that establishments will provide temporary refuge in case of transportation disruptions resulting from a natural disaster (wind and water damage, earthquakes). Establishments cannot be used for temporary refuge if suspension of transportation service is due to any other cause (mechanical failure of a train, a fatal accident, etc.). -
- Even if an establishment is included on the list, temporary refuge, food and drink services, or immediate use after a disaster may not be possible due to the nature of the disaster or the inability to accept refugees.
- Shuttle service to these establishments is not provided.
- Temporary refuge will be provided until transportation service is restored and a means to return home is confirmed.
- Because these establishments are not evacuation centers operated by municipal governments, the costs of taking temporary refuge, (food and drink, etc.) are the responsibility of the user. For details, please refer to the list of establishments.
- When taking temporary refuge, please be sure to follow the directions of hotel staff, and use the establishment in an appropriate manner.
- By utilizing these establishments, you agree that, due to the special nature of disasters, any injury or damage incurred by you during your stay is your own responsibility.

※ It is recommend that you download a copy of the “List of Hotel Establishments Providing Temporary Refuge to Stranded Travelers” beforehand, in case of an emergency.
