Introduction

This is a popular shrine, commonly known as Konpira-san.

There is an extremely long staircase, consisting of 1,368 steps. At the bottom, there are cafes, teahouses, souvenir shops, udon shops and many other in this lively area. You can rent a walking stick and go for a stroll, or take a ride in a 'kago' palanquin and enjoy the sights as you are carried around.

When you have ascended the staircase to the mid-way point, you will find the Hongu, the center of the shrine. There are many gods housed here, including the gods of agriculture, livestock, medicine and marine safety.

There are wonderful paintings on the ceiling of the Hongu, and on certain festival days you can see the priests and priestesses dancing in traditional clothes. You can also purchase a beautiful Kofuku-no-Kiirori-Omamori (Yellow Charm of Happiness).

If you are looking for further blessings (good luck from the gods and the Buddha), ascend all the steps and proceed to the Izuma Jinja in the back. The view from 421 meters is magnificent.
