Introduction

One of the 'Three Water Castles of Japan' (*castles that use sea water from the nearby ocean in their moat), the ruins of Takamatsu Castle are now open as a park. Also known as Tamamo Castle.

A popular way to visit is on the wooden boats that travel up the moats, which are connected to the ocean. In addition to enjoying the castle from the water, you can also experience feeding the sea bream that swim in the moat.

Inside the park, the Hiunkaku is a reconstruction that brings together the bungalow of the castle lord and the guest annex. This beautiful building, combining Japanese tradition and Western techniques, is an Important Cultural Heritage site. The building faces the Kareyamasui Tei-en, a type of garden that uses rocks, boulders and sand to represent water and mountain scenery. Currently, it is rented out for tea parties and other gatherings.

There are many events held here, such as the spring cherry blossom viewing and the plant market. In the autumn there is the chrysanthemum exhibit. This site holds a special place in the hearts of the local
