Introduction

In the Edo period, the rulers of Takamatsu spent more than 100 years building this famous garden. It is a national Special Scenic Spot (particularly important cultural heritage), and it is well-regarded abroad as well.

The expansive garden has many landscape vistas to see. For example, there are 6 ponds that have beautifully incorporated the surrounding natural environment, the beautiful Sori-bashi bridge, 1,400 magnificent pine trees and a mound that has been created to look like Mt Fuji, one of the symbols of Japan. Wander around freely taking in all the wonderful sites in this splendid garden.

There are many historical buildings to see as well – the Sanuki Handicrafts Center, which displays laquerware and pottery; the Commercial Promotion Center, which can be rented out for receptions and other events; and the Kikugetsu-tei, which is an Edo period tea house where you can enjoy matcha green tea and lunch (reservation required). The garden is also very popular as a viewing place for the spring cherry blossoms and the autumn foliage. During these seasonal periods, the park is lit up at night.
